Admiral Kauffman to Retire William Bodine, Jr., will Succeed Him

The Board of Trustees has announced the appointment of William W. Bodine, Jr., as President-elect of The Jefferson Medical College and Medical Center. Mr. Bodine will succeed Admiral James L. Kauffman, USN (Ret.) who resigned as President, effective June 30.

Mr. Percival E. Foerderer, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Admiral Kauffman and Mr. Bodine held a press conference on Monday, March 16, at which they met with representatives of television, radio and the Philadelphia papers. Following Mr. Foerderer's announcement at the conference of Mr. Bodine's appointment, he said that the resignation of Admiral Kauffman, who has directed the affairs of the Institution for the past decade, was accepted by the Board of Trustees "with regret and gratitude for outstanding leadership."

Mr. Foerderer explained that because of the magnitude of the position, the Board has arranged for an order of succession under which the retiring President and the President-elect will occupy communicating offices and Mr. Bodine, who took office on March 16, will be able to familiarize himself with the affairs of the College and Hospital before Admiral Kauffman's retirement in June.

During the press conference Admiral Kauffman said that in the 1949-59 decade during which he has served as President there have been many changes in the Medical College and in the Hospital.

"Under the leadership of Mr. Percival E. Foerderer (a member of the Board of Trustees for over 30 years, and Chairman of the Board for the last nine years) and with the constant assistance of a strong Board of Trustees," Admiral Kauffman stated, "there has been greater development in this decade than in any other period of Jefferson's 134 years."

Mr. Foerderer then presented the following pertinent facts: "The senior year in the Medical College has been lengthened from 30 to 50 weeks to keep abreast of medical knowledge and annual research expenditures have risen almost sixfold.

"And although costs of operating this largest private medical college in the nation have risen from $904,000 in 1949 to $2,947,000 in 1959, the faculty has been enlarged from 400 to over 700; the library enriched and the graduate courses in basic medical sciences leading to the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees developed, and laboratories expanded and improved.

"In the same decade," Mr. Foerderer continued, "the cost of operating Jefferson Hospital rose from $2,608,000 to $6,000,000 in the current year and the average per diem cost for ward patients climbed from $9.19 to $22.20.

"Of the cost of operating the hospital $1,324,471 represented the value of free care and service rendered indigent patients in the last fiscal year.

"Nevertheless, thanks to the Pavilion in operation since 1954, and the new air-conditioned student nurses' residence scheduled to open in September, Jefferson Hospital, with more beds and larger and more modern operating and technical facilities, is able to perform more and better service for a greater total of patients.

"The total of more than $10,000,000 spent on the Pavilion and the student nurses' residence is merely the more spectacular aspect of a decade marked by greatly expanded facilities.

"The new Radiology Therapy Unit, the Psychiatry Unit, the Heart Station, the Orthopedic Unit, the improved Children's Ward and the expanded activity of the Cardeza Foundation Division in Hematology are examples of progress in an era of widening medical horizons. Also seven leading hospitals and the Devereux Schools in Devon became affiliated with Jefferson Hospital.

"While Jefferson has met this terrific challenge superbly," Mr. Foerderer concluded, "plans are already in the making for even greater expansion and development in the next ten years for the care of the sick and medical education."

In speaking of his acceptance of the position as President-elect of Jefferson, Mr. Bodine said "Conscious of Philadelphia's eminence as the medical capital of the nation, I am aware of a heavy responsibility and undertake this challenging assignment with humility. Jefferson must continue its vital contribution to this leadership in medical education and hospital service.

"In the last decade, under Admiral Kauffman, Jefferson has met every challenge throughout a period of unparalleled advances in medical knowledge. The next decade poses further challenges which will be met with the continued support of the Board of Trustees and the dedicated service of our physicians, nurses, faculty members and administrative leaders.

"Our city pioneered American medicine. It provided the nation's first medical school (University of Pennsylvania) in 1765. With the advent of Jefferson in 1825, Philadelphia became the first American city with two widely-recognized medical colleges, each operating a voluntary hospital.

"Today Philadelphia has five recognized medical schools—a total unsurpassed in the nation—and more than fifty hospitals of great distinction.

"Philadelphia must maintain this position," Mr. Bodine concluded. "Its citizens must have the best in medical treatment and medical education. I am confident that Jefferson will continue to be a leader in providing the very best medical service to this metropolitan area as well as to the free world."

Following the press conference, on his first day in office, Admiral Kauffman introduced Mr. Bodine to leaders on the College faculty, the Hospital staff and the administration and, on March 17 the Board of Trustees and Admiral Kauffman entertained the Professors Emeriti, the Executive Faculty and their wives at a reception at The Barclay in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Bodine. Mr. and Mrs. Foerderer, Admiral and Mrs. Kauffman and Mr. and Mrs. Bodine received the guests, and all who attended were delighted to welcome the Bodines as members of the Jefferson "family."

OUR PRESIDENT RETIRES

It is with deep feeling that I announce to the Alumni of Jefferson that Vice Admiral James L. Kauffman has resigned as President of our institution, effective June 30, 1959. Everyone regardless of his station, who has been affiliated with Jefferson in the past ten years has felt the impact of this great administrator's magnanimity. Those of us who have been in close proximity to our President are even more aware of his sturdy qualities. Many times within the past ten years the Jeffersonian seas have been far from calm; nevertheless, under the expert leadership of Admiral Kauffman, Jefferson has not only weathered the storms but has been a better ship after each storm.

As a member of the Executive Faculty and one who is engaged and keenly interested in the administrative aspect of Jefferson, I acclaim without reservations that our "Admiral" has met every challenge with courage, fairness and undisputable integrity. His prime concern has always been the advancement of Jefferson; and regardless of his personal feelings or relations his ultimate decision invariably rested on merit and value to our establishment.

The physical and professional expansions at Jefferson, which, I am sure are all too obvious to you, are but a small segment of the achievements of Admiral Kauffman. What is just as important is the existing internal harmony within the faculty per se, and between the faculty, administrative personnel and the Board of Trustees. Never before has such unity existed; never before have such free channels of communication existed and never before has there been such understanding. All these achievements are testimonials to our retiring President's leadership, to his keen insight in human nature and to his ability to lead men.

Like all great leaders regardless of the disciplines in which they may be engaged, President Kauffman has assured Jefferson continued progress by seeking a successor who has the youth, courage, training, background and accomplishments qualifying him to carry on. The President-Elect is William W. Bodine, Jr., one of Philadelphia's outstanding young leaders. Mr. Bodine has many interests and is well versed in many areas, such as the field of education, the area of public affairs, the fields of medicine and science and in the humanities. With such a background and accomplishments Jefferson's future can only be bright and progressive.

As your President I take the privilege to speak for all the Alumni of Jefferson: it is with great regret that we witness the close of a glorious decade under the guidance of Admiral Kauffman. All of us wish him peace, health, happiness and a well deserved rest for many years ahead. To our President-elect we extend our welcome, friendship and loyalty, and may his new berth bring him and Jefferson more accomplishments and glory.

WILLIAM W. BODINE, JR.

WILLIAM W. BODINE, JR.

William W. Bodine, Jr., who has been described as "one of the most public-spirited and active leaders in the city", is one of a family which for several generations has brought valued executive leadership to Philadelphia's commercial life. His father, William Warden Bodine, Sr. retired in 1958 as Chairman of the Board of The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, and his grandfather served for many years in executive positions with The United Gas Improvement Company, becoming President of that corporation in 1912. Both his father and grandfather were also active in civic and cultural affairs in this city, and certainly Mr. Bodine has carried on that tradition, serving on the boards of 14 institutions and in 1950 having been selected the Young Man of The Year by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Bodine, who was born in 1918, was educated at Episcopal Academy in Overbrook, St. Paul's School in Concord, New Hampshire and Harvard University. He left Harvard in 1940 to enlist as a private in the Pennsylvania National Guard and remained in the armed forces throughout World War II, advancing to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the General Staff Corps, and finished his service as an aide to General Dwight D. Eisenhower. Mr. Bodine was decorated with the Legion of Merit, Croix de Guerre (with palm), Purple Heart, ETO Medal with four battle stars, Bronze Star, Victory Medal and American Defense Medal.

After the War he became associated with Tradesmen's National Bank and Trust Company of Philadelphia, and in 1951 accepted a position as special assistant to the President and Assistant Secretary of The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company. In 1954 he became Financial Secretary of that company, resigning from this post to accept the Presidency of Jefferson.

Mr. Bodine's activities are many and varied. In the field of education, he serves on the boards of Temple University, the Independent Schools' Fund of Philadelphia and Vicinity and The Episcopal Academy, where he is the third generation in his family to be a trustee.

In medicine, he is on the boards of Bryn Mawr Hospital and the Mental Health Association of Southeastern Pennsylvania.

His scientific memberships include the American Academy of Natural Sciences and the Franklin Institute. He is also a member of the Zoological Society of Philadelphia.

In the area of public affairs, he is on the boards of the Americans for Competitive Enterprise System, the Committee of Seventy, and the Pennsylvania Alcoholic Control Board. He is a member of the American Academy of Political Science, the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia and the Citizens Council for City Planning.

He was chairman of the Advance Gifts Campaign of the United Fund last fall as well as a member of the Board, and is Vice President and member of the Metropolitan Board of the Y.M.C.A. of Philadelphia, chairman of its Metropolitan World Service Committee and Delegate of Philadelphia Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Mr. Bodine is a member of the Philadelphia area board of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, a sponsor of historic Christ Church, Philadelphia, and is a member of the Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr.

His military affiliations include the Military Order of Foreign Wars of U. S., Pennsylvania Commandery Council member, the Second Army Advisory Committee for Eastern Pennsylvania, the Military Order of World Wars and the Society of the 28th Division.

He is a member of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and the Newcomen Society of North America. His clubs include the Owl and Hasty Pudding (Delta Kappa Epsilon) at Harvard, the Harvard Club of Philadelphia (he was a national director of the alumni association), the Philadelphia Club, Racquet Club, Gulph Mills Golf Club and Bay Head Yacht Club.

On May 26, 1946 Mr. Bodine married Miss Louise Richardson Dilworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dilworth, of Pittsburgh. They had met in Paris in the spring of 1945, when Miss Dilworth was serving with O.S.S. and Lt. Col. Bodine was on General Eisenhower's staff.

Mrs. Bodine has long been interested in hospital work, since she is the daughter of the President of Shadyside Hospital in Pittsburgh and a sister-in-law of Dr. Ronald C. Sniffen, a member of the staff of Massachusetts General Hospital. She serves on the Social Service Committee of Bryn Mawr Hospital and the Ward M Committee of the University of Pennsylvania Hospital.

The Bodines have four children, William, 3rd, who is 11 and Lawrence D., 9, both of whom are at Episcopal Academy, where they are fourth generation students; Anne D., 7, who is at Booth School, Bryn Mawr, and Barbara W., who attends Young School, Haverford. They live on County Line Road, Villanova.

Jefferson Joins in Closed Circuit TV Experiment

An experiment in medical education—for the first time linking five major medical schools by closed-circuit TV—took place in Philadelphia starting March 31.

Joining in this first network for undergraduate medical education were the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, The Jefferson Medical College, Temple University School of Medicine, Hahnemann Medical College, and Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania.

The programs were produced by the Medical Education Service Unit of Smith, Kline and French Laboratories, Philadelphia.

The special telecasts, a series of five lectures by Joseph W. Spelman, medical examiner for the City of Philadelphia, marked the first time five medical schools have used the technique of television for joint lecture-demonstration purposes.

By means of an electronic hook-up the lectures were televised to the five schools from a studio-laboratory in the SKF building at 1500 Spring Garden Street.

A total of some 1,300 students in selected classes of the schools watched the color telecasts on screens as large as 4½ by 6 feet in their own auditoriums. In addition, an estimated 400 guests also viewed the sessions.

The series of 45-minute programs were scheduled for 5:15 P.M. on March 31, April 2, 6, 8, and 10. Subject of the lectures was "Forensic Medicine"—the application of medical knowledge to purposes of the law.

Special equipment was installed at each of the Colleges to receive the programs, and a telephone hook-up was used to relay the students' questions directly to Dr. Spelman through a moderator at each of the schools.

29th Black and Blue Ball

The Annual Black and Blue Ball was held on February 27 in the ballroom of the Sheraton Hotel. These dances, held under the auspices of Kappa Beta Phi Society and under the sponsorship of the author, have now become a tradition at Jefferson, this being the 29th to be held since their inception.

Before the dance, Dr. William A. Sodeman, Dean, and his charming wife, together with Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kelly and the officers of Kappa Beta Phi and their guests were with us for dinner. Among the faculty members present, in addition to Dr. and Mrs. Sodeman, were Dr. and Mrs. Robert B. Nye, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Conly, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. John B. Montgomery, Dr. and Mrs.

Robert I. Wise, Dr. and Mrs. F. Johnson Putney, Dr. J. J. McKeown, Dr. and Mrs. John A. Koltes and many others.

The students who worked on the arrangements deserve great credit—especially Tom Gumina, who was Chairman of the Dance Committee. It is good to know that Tom will remain at Jefferson for a time at least, since he will interne here.

Kappa Beta Phi, the Black and Blue Ball Committee and the "Grand Swipe" appreciate the help and support of our patrons and know that we may depend on its continuance in the future.

SHAFFREY AWARD GIVEN TO DR. J. PARSONS SCHAEFFER

A number of Jefferson Medical College Alumni felt a surge of nostalgia on Sunday, April 5, when J. Parsons Schaeffer, A.M., M.D., Ph.D., Sc.D., D. Litt., Emeritus Professor of Anatomy and retired Director of the Daniel Baugh Institute of Anatomy, spoke at St. Joseph's College.

Dr. Schaeffer was the 1959 recipient of the award which memorializes the Rev. Clarence E. Shaffrey, S.J., M.A., M.D., Ph.D., the Jesuit biologist who directed the pre-medical department at St. Joseph's and sent nearly 200 students to Jefferson, where they enjoyed the rare experience of studying anatomy under Dr. Schaeffer.

In explaining the significance of the award, the Very Rev. J. Joseph Bluett, S.J., Ph.D., D.D., President of St. Joseph's, paid a moving tribute to Dr. Schaeffer.

"Religion and medicine are the highest vocations to which men can aspire," Father Bluett said, in explaining that Father Shaffrey had been first a physician and then a priest.

"Father Shaffrey lived his ideals, and based his code on the fact that a man has both a body and a soul and each needs the physician, whether spiritual or medical," Father Bluett recalled. "Thus we have the most exacting standards for recipients of this memorial and the Medical Alumni Association spends weeks each year selecting a man worthy of this recognition.

"In Dr. Schaeffer we are honoring a man who abundantly fills these requirements."

A knowing chuckle ran through the audience when Dr. Schaeffer opened his talk by denying that he had done any significant research in diabetes. Then he qualified his denial of a statement made by Vincent J. Buono, D.D.S., chairman of the presentation. In his early years at Jefferson, Dr. Schaeffer then admitted, he had researched in diabetes and in the variances in the Islands of Langerhans. Since he did not publish this work, Dr. Schaeffer does not consider it significant, although his findings remain a basic postulate in the treatment of this disease today.

As he continued to speak, this man eleven years emeritus and still receiving honors that demonstrate his enduring influence as an educator, his crystal clear grasp of his field, his inflections, his warnings, and his unconscious mannerisms all delighted a group of physicians who had studied under him.

On the stage behind him sat two previous recipients. There were Dr. John H. Gibbon, Jr., 1926, Samuel D. Gross Professor of Surgery and Head of the Department and Dr. Hugh G. Grady, 1934, now a member of the faculty of the Seton Hall University School of Medicine. In the audience were Dr. Leandro M. Tocantins, 1926, Professor of Clinical and Experimental Medicine and Director of the Division of Hematology of the Cardeza Foundation, and Mrs. Tocantins. Also Dr. William J. Tourish, 1928, Associate in Surgery and Mrs. Tourish.

Throughout the audience there were an estimated 75 former students of the eminent anatomist, all Alumni of both Jefferson and St. Joseph's. Additionally, Dr. John B. Alexander, 1939, now on the staff of the Franklin Clinic at Pennsylvania Hospital, was part of a wider group in attendance.

Other Jefferson recipients of the Shaffrey Award have been Dr. Louis H. Clerf, 1912, Professor Emeritus of Laryngology and Broncho-Esophagology, Dr. Francis J. Braceland, 1930, Director of the Institute of Living, Hartford, Connecticut, and the late Dr. Edward A. Strecker, former professor of nervous and mental diseases.

Dr. Schaeffer, in his acceptance address, developed the theme that the very constitution of man makes for his individuality and that this basic principle must be taken into consideration by the physician in his treatment of his patients.

DIVISION OF

The Board of Trustees has announced the appointment of Dr. Aaron Finkelman as head of the Dental Department, succeeding Dr. Emerson R. Sausser, who has been made Emeritus Dentist. Dr. Sausser had been Head of the Department for 28 years and is responsible for much of its growth and progress.

HISTORY OF THE DEPARTMENT

The first Dentist to be appointed to serve at Jefferson Hospital was Dr. Joseph Head in 1917; Dr. Douglas Scott was appointed as his Assistant and Dr. Howard C. Watson was the first interne. Dr. Head initiated mouth hygiene training in the hospital, first instructing the nurses in scientific techniques, since he believed that many diseases which resisted treatment responded after the elimination of oral infections.

Dr. Head served as Dental Head from 1917 until his retirement in 1930, at which time Dr. Emerson R. Sausser was appointed.

Dr. Sausser has contributed much to progress in the field of Dentistry. In 1908 he was instrumental in initiating oral examinations for children in the public schools and, as President of the Pennsylvania State Dental Society, he was successful in having dental hygienists licensed for the first time in 1921.

In 1930 Dr. Sausser inaugurated the Philadelphia Mouth Hygiene Association for underprivileged children and raised large sums through his patients and friends for the furtherance of this work. Through his efforts, this Association has grown from a portable unit on a bus to a number of multi-chair clinics dispensing optimum dental service to a low income strata of Philadelphia school children. The number of such treatments has averaged 80,000 per year from 1934 to 1957.

In more recent years, through the beneficence of a patient and friend of Dr. Sausser's, Samuel Kress, the Kress Foundation endowed the Emerson R. Sausser Dental Clinic for Children, which is located on the 9th Floor of the Curtis Clinic.

PRESENT DENTAL DEPARTMENT

The Department has recently received Board accreditation and is now a division of The Jefferson Medical College Hospital Department of Surgery, under Dr. John H. Gibbon, Jr. The Division of Oral Surgery, is one of three such accredited Departments in Philadelphia hospitals.

Dr. Finkelman, the newly appointed Head, has been associated with the Department since 1933, having been Acting Head for the past four years. Since 1951 he has also served as Dental Diagnostician with the Hillman Medical Center. He was with the House of Good Shepherd for five years and the Kent Day Nursery for 23 years.

In addition to Dr. Finkelman, there are two internes and a staff of eight, including both oral surgeons and general practitioners. Plans are in progress to establish a residency program in the near future.

The Department's training program is implemented by a lecture series in which outside specialists in the fields of medicine and periodontology participate.

Services of the Department include oral diagnosis, X-Ray, surgery and treatment of diseases of the oral cavity. Hospital in-patients are given emergency temporary aid, and the surgical aspects of dentistry are receiving increased emphasis and scope.

In 1940 the Department was re-equipped, through the efforts of Dr. Sausser, by the Dietrich Foundation, and there is an endowed bed maintained through the gift of Harriet Blanchard. The Department is presently being refurnished and new equipment added so that it may supply more comprehensive service in aiding in the total evaluation of patient needs.

Jefferson Departments and Betty Bacharach Home to Cooperate in Treating Asthmatic Children

The Betty Bacharach Home in Atlantic City, New Jersey, in association with the Departments of Pediatrics, Medicine and Psychiatry of Jefferson Medical College, has planned a unit for the treatment of intractable asthma in children.

Dr. Martin Green, Associate in Pediatrics at Jefferson, will head the unit serving as pediatric allergists, and consultants will be Dr. Hans G. Keitel, Professor of Pediatrics and Head of the Department; Dr. Thomas A. Lof-tus, Associate Professor of Clinical Psychiatry; and Dr. Richard T. Cathcart, Assistant Professor of Medicine and Director of the Cardio-respiratory Laboratory. Dr. David B. Allman, Class of 1914, is Medical Director of the Betty Bacharach Home.

Children from the ages of five to fifteen years with perennial asthma of more than one year duration, and who are refractory to hyposensitization and other forms of medical treatment will be considered for admission.

The asthmatic unit will be a separate entity of the Home. Environmental control is excellent and all facilities including schooling are available.

Treatment will be directed to the etiology based on evaluation of the allergic factors, pulmonary function tests and psychiatric interviews with the child and his parents. The aim of the therapy is to arrest the asthma and return the child to his home in the shortest possible time. Controlled studies are in process to determine the relative importance of the psychic and organic aspects of intractable asthma in children and evaluation of the treatment of these children in comparison to control groups within the institution are also under way.

ANNUAL GIVING FUND AT 85% OF GOAL

JOHN H. GIBBON, JR., M.D.

This is the last report by your Annual Giving Fund Committee before the close of the Eleventh Fund on June 11, 1959, and I am delighted to be able to give encouraging news.

The total of the Fund now stands at $93,118.71, which is almost 85% of our $110,000 goal. It is my sincere hope, however, that we can exceed this goal and I believe that a concentrated drive on the part of our loyal Class Agents, coupled with the recognition by all of us of our responsibility to our Alma Mater, will produce this result.

Of our total Alumni body of over 6,600 men, 2,648 have contributed to the Eleventh Fund to date. I know that this number will be increased by the closing date of the Drive, for I am confident that Jefferson Alumni are deeply interested in her future and realize that, as a part of the College, whatever Jefferson does or becomes affects us all.

To date the over-all response by Reunion Classes has been somewhat behind the pace of prior years but the Agents for these classes are contacting their classmates by telephone and letter in an effort to develop the interest and support which we anticipate each year from the classes who are renewing their contacts with the School and with each other.

Those of us who were graduated some twenty to thirty years ago are probably at the peak of our productive capacity and are in the position to share our material success with the institution which gave us the knowledge to achieve it. I am sure that all of us are cognizant of this, and will be generous in our support.

The College is going forward in many ways—in physical plant, number of teachers, research facilities and teaching methods. All who have contributed to Annual Giving Fund Drives through the years have contributed to this progress. We are confident that your loyalty and support will continue and, indeed, increase as Jefferson's needs are made known to you. I hope that many of you will find it possible to visit the College in June, for you will find tangible evidence of both her progress and her needs.

While the total amount realized through the Drive is of vital importance, participation—in any amount—by all Jefferson graduates is the key not only to the success of the Fund, but the indication of the strength and loyalty of our Alumni body. It is this participation which places us high among the leading alumni funds in the country.

The percentage of participation among the younger classes has been particularly outstanding, as is shown in the standings listed below.

I shall look forward to seeing all of you in June, and hope that our announcement of the final figure for the 11th Fund may exceed our most optimistic expectation.

JEFFERSON ALUMNUS AVERTS DISASTER FROM POISONED FISH

On March 25, 1959 a three-year old boy was admitted to a Camden Hospital and was pronounced dead a few minutes after his admission. Because he remembered a case he read while attending Jefferson Medical College, Dr. Thomas L. Singley, Jr., Class of 1957, saved the other members of the Kleinschmidt family and possibly averted a major disaster from poisoned fish.

Dr. Singley, a Medical Resident, was on duty at Cooper Hospital when the Kleinschmidt boy was brought in. Dale was beyond help, but Dr. Singley noticed that his body was tinged with blue and he remembered the case of the "eleven blue men" about which he had read in the American Journal of Public Health while at school. The article had told of these eleven men, nine of whom died, having eaten oatmeal on which they had sprinkled lethal doses of sodium nitrite, mistaking it for salt.

Dr. Singley believed that the Kleinschmidt child had been poisoned by sodium nitrite also and, recalling that the antidote was Methylene blue, Dr. Singley and a team of four internes were able, by intravenous injections, to save the other five members of the family.

Upon learning that all in the family had eaten flounder that evening, Dr. Singley felt it was possible that the poison had in some manner been contained in the fish. He contacted a Philadelphia toxicologist who agreed with his conclusion, and the Philadelphia health authorities and the Philadelphia office of the United States Food and Drug Administration were notified.

Warnings to residents of the Philadelphia, New Jersey and Delaware areas to destroy all flounder were sent out by radio and television and all flounder was recovered from markets.

While many persons had eaten the poisoned flounder, because the toxic agent had been identified, physicians were able to administer the antidote promptly and many lives were saved.

A telegram of congratulations was sent to Dr. Singley by the President-elect of Jefferson Medical College and Hospital in behalf of the Administration, and a write-up appeared in the "Medicine" section of Time Magazine.

DR. DAVID M. DAVIS ADDRESSES OSLER SOCIETY

Dr. David M. Davis, Professor of Urology Emeritus, addressed a joint meeting of The Osler Society of The Jefferson Medical College and The Section on History of The College of Physicians of Philadelphia on the evening of March 3, 1959.

His subject was "The History of the Resident System," and a resume of his address follows:

"The Greeks, the Arabs, and other ancient peoples recognized the importance of clinical training and experience in the education of a doctor. This recognition has continued ever since, and clinical training has often been required. Leyden, Edinburgh, Paris and the German Universities successively laid stress on actual work in hospitals. Various arrangements for such work have existed in this country for over one hundred and fifty years, culminating in the universal adoption of internships.

"When the Johns Hopkins Hospital opened in 1889 Dr. Osler and Dr. Halsted established a system of extended residence in the hospital to provide intensive and prolonged training for those looking toward positions of leadership in research and teaching. The work of the residents was strictly supervised, responsibility and authority were progressively increased as ability was demonstrated, competition was keen, and the candidate finally adjudged best became The Resident (of Medicine or Surgery) and might remain as long as he wished.

"The certifying boards in the various specialties, by requiring residency training for all candidates, have stimulated the establishment of a very large number of residencies. There are now more positions than there are applicants. Competition has disappeared. Married men are now accepted for residencies.

"These factors have converted the residencies into a means for the more or less routine advanced training for the practice of a medical or surgical specialty, a purpose beneficial indeed, but quite different from that of the original Johns Hopkins residencies.

"Many of the boards are now setting up committees of review, with the view of inspecting residencies to see that they are providing adequate, efficient training as contemplated to provide a proper basis for certification. One wonders whether a different class of residencies, fewer in number, more prolonged and more arduous, should not be set up for those looking toward the positions of leadership and high responsibility in medical education."

DEAN AND RADIOLOGY PROFESSOR PARTICIPATE IN DALLAS CLINICAL CONFERENCE

Dr. William A. Sodeman, Dean and Dr. Roy R. Greening, Professor of Radiology, took prominent roles in the Twenty-eighth Annual Spring Clinical Conference of the Dallas Southern Clinical Society which was held in Dallas, Texas, in March.

Dr. Sodeman presented two papers: "Amebiasis and the Liver," and "Some Diagnostic Problems in Occlusive Peripheral Vascular Disease." He also participated in two panels; one on "Problems in Fluid and Electrolyte Balance" and the other on "The Diagnostic Use of Radioactive Isotopes."

Dr. Greening also gave two papers: "Complications of Steroid Therapy: Roentgen Manifestations in Joints, the Intestinal Tract, and the Chest" and "Perfectionism in Medicine." He was one of the panelists, with Dr. Sodeman, on the panel dealing with "The Diagnostic Use of Radioactive Isotopes."

FACULTY MEMBERS PLAY LEADING ROLES IN MEETING OF BIOLOGICAL AND MEDICAL SCIENCES SECTION OF NEW YORK ACADEMY OF SCIENCES

The New York Academy of Sciences, Section of Biological and Medical Sciences, held a two day conference on "The Vagina" at the Barbizon-Plaza Hotel in New York City.

Dr. Warren R. Lang, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, was Conference Chairman and Dr. Abraham E. Rakoff, Clinical Professor of Obstetric and Gynecologic Endocrinology, was a member of the organizing committee.

Dr. Lang, together with Dr. Adolphe T. Gregoire, Research Biologist in Obstetrics and Gynecology, and Kathleen Ward presented a paper on "The Amino Acids in Vaginal Secretion," and Dr. Rakoff served as Chairman for an afternoon session of the conference. Dr. Charles G. Rosa, Assistant Professor of Anatomy, with Dr. Joseph T. Velardo of Yale University Medical School, gave a paper on "Histo-Chemical Localization of Vaginal Oxidative Enzymes and Mucius in Rats Treated with Estradiol and Progesterone."

Members of Obstetrics and Gynecology Department on Programs of The American Society for the Study of Sterility and The American College of Obstetricians

The American Society for the Study of Sterility held its 15th Annual Meeting at the Shelbourne Hotel in Atlantic City from April 3 to April 5, preceding the 7th Annual Clinical Meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists which was held from April 2 through April 8, also in Atlantic City. Jefferson faculty members and Alumni were on the programs of both meetings.

Dr. Abraham E. Rakoff, Clinical Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecologic Endocrinology, was Chairman of a panel on "Radiation and Human Reproduction" during the meeting of the American Society for the Study of Sterility and, as part of the panel, Dr. John B. Montgomery, Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology and Co-Chairman of the Department, and Dr. Joseph P. Long, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, presented a joint paper titled "Reproduction Following Irradiation Therapy in the Management of Dysfunctional Uterine Bleeding." Dr. Rakoff also presided at a luncheon Seminar where "The Significance of Hormone Assays in the Diagnosis of Infertility in the Non-Pregnant Female" was discussed.

During the Conference of The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Dr. Thaddeus L. Montgomery, Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology and Chairman of the Department, participated in two Breakfast Conferences on the subjects "Infant Resuscitation" and "Anaesthesia and Analgesia in Obstetrics," and Dr. John B. Montgomery was a discussor at a Breakfast Conference devoted to "Ovarian Tumors."

During the Clinical Conferences Dr. George A. Hahn, Associate Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, and Dr. Edward L. McConnell, Jr., Instructor in Obstetrics and Gynecology, presented "Chemotherapy in Pelvic Cancer," and Dr. Thaddeus L. Montgomery presented "Diagnosis and Treatment of Diseases of the Breasts."

Dr. Leib J. Golub, Assistant Professor of Clinical Obstetrics and Gynecology, presented a motion picture entitled "The Pelvic Examination."

Among the scientific exhibits at the Convention were the following:

"Ureteral Injuries in Gynecologic Surgery," Dr. J. Louis Wilkerson, Associate in Urology, with Dr. Craig W. Muckle;

"Maternal Mortality in Franklin County—A Ten Year

"Detection of Gynecological Cancer by Fluorescence Microscopy," Dr. Walter Sussman, Class of 1926; and

"Physiologic Concepts of Obstetric Care," Dr. Thaddeus L. Montgomery, Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology and Chairman of the Department, Dr. Paul A. Bowers, Assistant Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, and Dr. W. Clark Kittleberger, Instructor in Obstetrics and Gynecology.

PHILADELPHIA COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY HOLDS 23rd ANNUAL POSTGRADUATE INSTITUTE

From March 17 to March 20 The Philadelphia County Medical Society held its 23rd Annual Post Graduate Institute. Dr. C. Wilmer Wirts, Associate Professor of Medicine, directed the Institute and the following members of The Jefferson Medical College Faculty participated:

Dr. George A. Hahn, Associate Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology presented "Carcinoma of the Cervix" during the Cancer Conference; Dr. James E. Clark, Instructor in Medicine, spoke on "Adrenal Depressing Drugs" and Dr. James W. Daly, Associate in Clinical Medicine, spoke on "Diagnostic Work-up" during the session on "Present Day Treatment of Hypertension."

On Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Robert I. Wise, Magee Professor of Medicine and Head of the Department, discussed the "Management of Staphylococcal Infections."

Dr. Edward Weiss, Class of 1917, gave a paper on "The Use of Psycho Therapeutic Drugs in General Practice" during the Tuesday afternoon session on "The Use of Newer Drugs."

Dr. John F. Wilson, Associate Professor of Dermatology, moderated a panel on "Some Advances in the Management of Skin Diseases," with Dr. Herbert A. Luscombe, Assistant Professor of Dermatology, participating as a panelist, his subject being "Use of Steroids in the Management of Dermatoses."

On Wednesday afternoon, March 18, Dr. Franz Goldstein, Instructor in Medicine, spoke on "Management of Post-Gastrectomy Malnutrition."

During the sessions on the same afternoon, Dr. Heinrich Brieger, Professor of Industrial Medicine, discussed "Effects of Community Air Pollution on Health" and Dr. Harold I. Israel, a Jefferson Graduate of the Class of 1934, delivered a paper on "Occupational Lung Diseases."

Dr. Martin J. Sokoloff, Clinical Professor of Medicine and Director of Barton Memorial Division, and Dr. Richard T. Cathcart, Assistant Professor of Medicine, participated in a panel on "Management of Chronic Pulmonary Disease."

On Thursday afternoon Dr. W. Paul Havens, Professor of Clinical Biology and Professor of Medicine, moderated a panel on "Current Concepts of Viral Diseases."

Dr. J. Woodrow Savacool, Associate Professor of Preventive Medicine, was one of the participating Clinicians in the Clinical Pathological Conference on Thursday afternoon, and on Friday afternoon Dr. Daniel W. Lewis, Assistant Professor of Clinical Medicine, discussed "Diagnostic Problems in Angina Pectoris and Myocardial Infarction."

Dr. Wirts was awarded a scroll at the dinner on March 18 in recognition of service rendered during his three year term (1957-1959) as Director of this Post Graduate Institute.

PHILADELPHIA DERMATOLOGICAL SOCIETY IS HOST GROUP FOR ATLANTIC DERMA- TOLOGICAL CONFERENCE

The Atlantic Dermatological Conference composed of the societies from Toronto, Montreal, New England, New York, Baltimore, Washington, and Philadelphia met at Jefferson on March 14. The Philadelphia Dermatological Society, of which Dr. Herman Beerman is President, and Dr. Herbert A. Luscombe, Assistant Professor of Dermatology, is Secretary-Treasurer, was the host society for the meeting. More than 250 members attended the Conference which is the outstanding clinical dermatological session in the eastern United States.

Registration was held in McClellan Hall where the guests were treated to coffee and donuts served by Miss Eleanor Meagher, chief dietician, assisted by the wives of the Jefferson members. The morning was devoted to a clinical demonstration of a number of patients with interesting and unusual skin diseases. The seventh and eighth floors of the Curtis Clinic were reserved for this, with Miss Frances Grove and her nursing staff assisting in the examination of the patients. The entire afternoon was spent in an open discussion of the cases presented in the morning.

The meeting was terminated with an evening of festivities that included a cocktail party, dinner, dancing and entertainment. Dr. and Mrs. William A. Sodeman attended this social gathering as guests of the Philadelphia Dermatological Society.

ARIZONA ALUMNI MEET IN TUCSON

On February 15, 1959, the first statewide convention of Jefferson graduates was held at the El Conquistador Club in the El Conquistador Hotel in Tucson, Arizona. The meeting was called for several reasons:

1. To welcome Dr. and Mrs. Mario Castallo to our sunny state.
2. To cement old friendships and to make new acquaintances in our Jefferson Family Group.
3. To establish a yearly get together for Jefferson men.
4. To elect an officer to handle yearly meetings and to get together with the new Jefferson men who arrive in our state and keep in touch with those already practicing here in Arizona.

I was sent a list by the alumni office of the names of Jefferson men practicing here and I learned that there were thirty-one men. Unfortunately, two of these, Dr. Alexander Shoren, class of "32", and Dr. John L. Hydricks, class of "15", recently expired and another member had moved to Albuquerque, New Mexico one month prior to our meeting. Letters were sent to the other twenty-eight men and the response was very gratifying. Wives were invited, as this was a strictly special get together.

Particularly pleasing were the four Phoenicians who arrived promptly. Phoenix is 128 miles north of Tucson, so their presence was truly appreciated.

We all had cocktails from 4:00 P.M. to 6:00 P.M., and at 6:00 P.M. retired to the dining room, where we ingested excessive calories and enjoyed each other's company. The men introduced themselves, as did the ladies, and each gave a brief run down on his activities. We then had a brief talk from the guest of honor, who answered the multifarious questions regarding our beloved alma mater.

Letters have been sent to all the men, thanking them for their attendance. If this first get together is any indication of things to come, then I, like the rest of those present, am eagerly awaiting our next get together. Our thanks to Dr. Castallo, who incidentally manages to look younger and more prosperous with each succeeding year. Regards to all. Hasta luego,

from the sunny Southwest,

T. E. A. VON DEDENROTH, M.D.

P.S. A written vote was taken for a state chapter officer and Dr. T. E. A. von Dedenroth, M.D. was elected.

Attending the dinner were Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Bank, 1921, Phoenix; Dr. and Mrs. George Enfield, 1923, Phoenix; Dr. Louis Lide, 1921, Phoenix; Dr. and Mrs. Mayo Robb, 1919, Phoenix; Dr. and Mrs. Richard Brown, 1955, Tucson; Dr. and Mrs. Merwin R. Chappel, 1935, Tucson; Dr. and Mrs. Philip Derickson, 1943, Tucson; Dr. and Mrs. William Goodin, 1943, Tucson; Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Kenan, 1937, Tucson; Dr. and Mrs. Robert Lacock, 1946, Tucson; Dr. and Mrs. Harold Law, 1936, Tucson; Dr. and
